My husband and I live on Pearl Street in the Uptown/Riverbend/Carrollton area of New Orleans.

I just saw the map of the planned redistricting and my first thought when I saw how Uptown and Carrollton - which is one big neighborhood - was that whoever drew these lines was blind or maybe never lived in a real neighborhood. We are both against breaking up our neighborhood as we will never be represented in the state legislature with this map. Why don't you make redraw the boundaries making a much smaller east west line closer to the lake and leave uptown together. Of course this would make more sense and would represent the will of the people as opposed to the will of the politicians. Please do the right thing and keep uptown together.

Respectfully,

Jo Anne and Dan Casey
