To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing to request a fair, equitable, and transparent process for redistricting in Louisiana. My grandparents fought for the right to vote, proudly participated in elections, and instilled the importance of voting among their children and grandchildren so that we could live better lives. The redistricting process should not undermine or dilute any communities' voices to elect representatives from their community who reflect their interest, regardless of race or political party. Please simply do the right thing by creating logical, rational districts with equal access to influence our political process. That is what democracy is about.

Sincerely,

Kimberly Williams
